WHAT’S THE PROBLEM?

Delivery of healthcare in the United States is in turmoil because to date the system has focused more on treating disease than preventing it. How can the United States build on its history of treatment innovation, and re-invent the care delivery model to address wellness and contribute to healthier communities? And what happens if we don’t control cost and quality?

Cost is a driving factor around the globe in the quest to deliver better healthcare and social determinants. And what happens if we don’t control cost and quality?
